

13th Workshop on Antarctic Meteorology and Climate (WAMC)
July 16-18, 2018
Madison, Wisconsin, USA

Year of Polar Prediction in the Southern Hemisphere Meeting #3 ((YOPP-SH#3)
Madison, Wisconsin, USA

The Antarctic Meteorological Research Center (AMRC) at the University of Wisconsin-Madison invites you to participate in the 13th Workshop on Antarctic Meteorology and Climate (WAMC) July 16-18, 2018, which will be held at the University of Wisconsin's Pyle Center on the shore of Lake Mendota in beautiful Madison, Wisconsin, USA. The third Year of Polar Prediction in the Southern Hemisphere meeting (YOPP-SH#3) will be held following WAMC on Thursday, July 19th, 2018.

The WAMC brings together those with research and operational/logistical interests in Antarctic meteorology and forecasting and related disciplines. As in the past, the annual activities and status of the observing (e.g. Automatic Weather Stations) and modeling (Antarctic Mesoscale Prediction System) efforts will be addressed, and feedback and results from their user communities are solicited. More broadly, this workshop also is a forum for current results and ideas in Antarctic meteorology, numerical weather prediction, and weather forecasting, from contributors around the world. There will be discussions on the relationships among international efforts and Antarctic forecasting, logistical support, and science. We welcome papers and posters on these topics. For the third YOPP-SH meeting, project investigators and representatives of national agencies active in Antarctica are invited to provide updates on the current status of planning with regards to the YOPP Special Observing Period (SOP) in the Southern Hemisphere that will be launched during the next austral summer season taking place from 16 November 2018 to 15 February 2019.

Please see the meeting website for more information, including registration and abstract submission:
